the superplanabler

super(charged)pla(centa)(e)nabler the two superplanablers were upgrading not only human beings but androids too and even animals... all beings what did trust them so far as to let them encapsulate the whole body would come out of the experience enabled to take on any shape and colour, fur or non fur....with treelike bark skin or foxlike fur, with mostly human features or having a body inspired by snakes, dragons, spiders, aligators, comodovarans... however the individuum felt like this shape or that skin could be interesting to feel, to help one experiencing new rewarding sensual times luoi started to send in some of her cell materials too after she was regularily calling in to the rasip appartement where so many healings and natural enhancements were made possible trough the pool what was finding its own collective intelligence these days she progressed quite a bit in the deep meditations to become treelike, for weeks she rooted herself into mother earth and find lasting connection, much good communication happened trough roots and leaves and branches, she even learnt to accept the insects nibbling at her and the occasional bigger cats using her as a scratching post... she was quite balances with this research, it was slow and steady, mostly non rational, but surrendering ones investigative habits towards the bliss of feeling light pouring in trough thousands of small leaves, the wind moving ones body like .... the wind needed to move... rainwater flowing down one s bark at times when she began to wake up or phasechange from her tree state towards dominantly human ness, she chose to keep some tree steady equilibrium ... like perhaps 30 percent... her skin looked and felt beautifull, some degree smooth humanish, some degree barky good roughness ... her hairs having human silkyness flow together with young bush like twiggyness... ah it was paradise for luoi and she could see herself spending many decades in the company of the trees her cell contributions were very small as she came only for half days or so back into mostly human shape, but her essence was of great importance and did help the poolmind to stabilise greatly... with all the recent flying and airy firey qualities coming in luoi s root medicine was just the right counterweight ascende and perma were kind of having a similar desire like luoi, to blend in, to assimilate one s own nature towards the being what one really admires, becoming in the real body the very thing what one s heart desires their days were filled with being oranges, bananas, coconut for half hours, becoming seawater for some minutes, staying as rocks for days at a time they were so happy together, having found what made their heart sing the hut perma had built some years ago, still served them to keep the satelite phones in and the solar panels on the roof... but they spent nearly no more time under roofs, they longed to be in intimate contact with the living all the time they did not need any food as they had needed when being humans... if they felt like being thirsty, they became a little pool of freshwater ... or grew themselves into a juicy mango, when they felt a faint hunger like sensation they metamorphed into macadamia and para nuts... the life on the nacary islands as shapeshifters by passion... was a good one their essences too were altough samewise small in quantity like luoi s ... contributing a great number of qualitites to the poolbeing ... it was very gratefull towards the nacary island experimenters especially when the placentas were being given into the pools offering themselves for upcycling, the being what one lusts after wisdom did greatly help the pool to build a greater self awareness... expressing its understanding of how it wanted to serve evolution via the superplanablers being the very thing one lusts after, being that colour, in corpor ating just this fur covered skin, having hairs like vine ranks and fingers like what... ah yes, something new, something not yet thougth what would be designed and grown simulteanously, undone, redone, changed again and again with the satisfaction of being able to morph just like that, without it costing anything or causing any trouble to anyone or any connected circuits ... it was a great innovation, this be what you desire tech

.... and it did not consume anything, just morph the available body substance around into fruits, water, rocks and birds... when ascende and perma travelled to rasip, they did so with being various suiting for travelling ... characters ... swimming the ocean as dolphins, sharks, clownfishes and octopusses... flying over land as birds as well as running as mice and rats...

it was great fun for the complete assembled friends research group to listen to ascende and perma s travel experiences while they were all bathing together